

24th JSSX Annual Meeting in Kyoto

November 30, 2009

24th JSSX (The Japanese Society for the Study of Xenobiotics) Annual Meeting was held on 27-29 November. JSSX is a society for researchers of drug metabolism and pharmacokinetics, which is the study of the disposition of various chemical substances, especially medical drugs, in the body, focusing on their effectiveness and/or toxicity.

Since the society was founded in 1985, the council members has been promoting the globalization of JSSX, and this time, Prof. Ken-ichi Inui, Kyoto University Hospital, the Chair of the Organizing Committee, set English as the official language for the present annual meeting, so that the attractive works in Japan has been transmitted to all over the world.

ICC Kyoto NEWS